

- 73 -

Abstract

The present invention relates to the use of novel compositions of lipopeptides that are immunomodulators encapsulated as liposomes or free-form for the treatment of neoplasia and in reducing chemotherapeutically induced cellular pathology, including mucositis. These lipopeptides may be administered alone or in combination with a second antineoplastic agent.

5